This Application, filed September 24, 2008, is a 371 of PCT/GB05/00115, filed January 14, 2005, and claims priority to foreign application 0400814.0, filed in the United Kingdom, January 14, 2004

Applicant filed amendments to the claims July 13, 2006. Claims 1-5, 7 are amended. Claims 8-14 are new. Claims 1-14 are pending.

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group 1, claim(s) 1-5, 8-14, drawn to a method of targeting integration of a transgene construct.

Group 2, claim(s) 6, 7, drawn to a fusion protein comprising an endonuclease fused to an integrase.

The inventions listed as Groups 1-2 do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the special technical feature is a fusion protein comprising a restriction enzyme that binds nucleic acid and an integrase. At the time of filing, Bushman, WO 95/32225, published November 30, 1995, see IDS, teaches that chimeric proteins designed to site-specifically integrate into target DNA was known at the time of filing. These chimeric proteins comprise a first domain that attaches the chimeric protein to target nucleic acid and a second domain that integrates donor nucleic acid into the target nucleic acid (Bushman, page 6, 1st parag. under Detailed Description of the Invention). With regard to the first domain, the domain functions to attach the chimeric protein to a specific recognition sequences on a target nucleic acid. These DNA binding domains include those obtained from restriction enzymes (Bushman, page 9, line 13). With regard to the second domain of the chimeric protein, Bushman teaches that the second domain functions to promote integration of the donor nucleic acid into a target nucleic acid. Bushman teaches that the second domain is derived from an integrase protein and can be obtained from retroviral integrases (page 10, 3rd parag. to page 11, 1st parag.).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

MPEP 1893.03(d) states: If an examiner (1) determines that the claims lack unity of invention and (2) requires election of a single invention, when all of the claims drawn to the elected invention are allowable (i.e., meet the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112), the nonelected invention(s) should be considered for rejoinder. Any nonelected product claim that requires all the limitations of an allowable product claim, and any nonelected process claim that requires all the limitations of an allowable process claim, should be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04 and § 821.04(a). Any nonelected processes of making and/or using an allowable product should be considered for rejoinder following the practice set forth in MPEP § 821.04(b).
